CITY PREPARING TO MAKE WELCOME FARMERS' UNION

Program For Three Days State Meeting Given Out By Organizer.

Parade and Open Session at Auditorium Rink.

SOME PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Kentucky will be organized as a state into the National Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America in a meeting here Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at the Auditorium rink, which will be attended by delegates from each local union in the twenty counties in the state where the movement has gotten a foothold. The membership now numbers nearly 8,000 farmers, and 1,500 of these are expected to attend aside from the delegates.

National President C. S. Barnett, of Union City, Ga., will attend and address the convention, as will national secretary McCulloch; J. E. Montgomery, state president of Tennessee; W. A. Morris, of Alabama, chairman of the national board of directors; W. B. Evans, of Louisiana, E. Hunyan Carter, of Mississippi, and other prominent members. Thursday's session will be open to the public and the program is designed to enlighten the people on the purpose of the union. Friday and Saturday the sessions will be secret.

Early Thursday morning the delegates will secure badges at the Commercial club rooms and proceed to First street and Broadway, where they will form at 9:30 o'clock for the march down Broadway to the Auditorium rink. Each county union will be headed by its officers and a banner with its name prominently displayed. Central Labor union and the local of Paducah will form at Fourth street and Kentucky avenue and march to First street and Broadway, where they will fall in behind the Farmers' union and the whole parade will be headed by Dea's band.

Reduced rates have been secured by State Organizer R. L. Barnett on all steamboat lines and railroads. The convention meets here on the invitation of the Commercial club, Retail Merchants' association, Mayor James P. Smith and the Central Labor Union. Mr. Barnett believes that the movement, now covering 28 states, is sweeping everything before it and will sooner or later absorb other farmers' organizations because its object includes all the products of the farm. He says it is a law and order movement, which is seeking the farmers' interests in a business way.

State officers will be elected in this meeting and a constitution and by-laws, which already have been drafted, will be ratified by the convention. The program for the three days' meeting is as follows:

Thursday, August 6.
1. Officers and members form at 9:30 o'clock for march to Auditorium rink from First street and Broadway.

2. Address of welcome by Mayor James P. Smith at 10 o'clock in convention hall.

3. Response for convention by the Rev. Robert Johnston, of Chattanooga county.

4. Address by National President C. S. Barnett, of Union City, Ga.

5. Address by W. A. Morris, of Alabama, chairman of national board of directors.

BRYAN OUTLINES REPLIES TO TAFT IN HIS SPEECH

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 5. (Special.)—Bryan is planning to have Bryan and Kern clubs organized by the whole state in doubtful states. He hopes to establish 10,000 such clubs. The candidate is a great believer in club organization, and thinks this will win many votes. Copies of his printed acceptance speech were received today. Bryan has revised the document until now it is only 5,000 words long, about one-third of Taft's speech. Bryan explained that he has replied only to the issues raised by Taft. He will discuss the platform later. Preparations are being made to enter the biggest crowd ever assembled in Lincoln, at notification next Wednesday.

Bryan announced that his acceptance speech deals largely with the issue stated in the platform, "Shall the people rule this country?" He will discuss trusts at the Kern notification at Indianapolis, bank deposits guaranteed at Topeka August 27, labor at Chicago Labor Day and state and national issues at Peoria, September 9.

FOUNTAIN FOR MEN, HORSES AND DOGS ERECTED IN PARK

Plans for the park on Broadway at the intersection of Tenth street have been formulated by the board of park commissioners, and the erection of the fountain shows that the park will be a reality. The fountain for the horses and dogs is 40 feet from the sidewalk, and was presented to the city by the National Humane Alliance, which was founded by Hermon Lee Bonfigli, a wealthy capitalist, who left his fortune for the organization of humane societies. The fountain is a handsome piece of work constructed out of polished granite. At the base of the monument is the drinking fountain for dogs and above is the large bowl for the horses.

From the street to the fountain the commissioners will have the blithely street placed and it will be convenient to drive from Broadway to the fountain. Forty feet from the fountain the grass plot will begin and on both sides there will be a gravel driveway, 30 feet wide, extending to Kentucky avenue. Bordering the driveway will be a concrete walk five feet wide. The improvement of placing the material to the fountain will begin as soon as work is started on the reconstruction of Broadway. J. E. Williamson & company erected the fountain yesterday and it has attracted much attention.

Plans in Western Kentucky have arrived.
The constitutional committee is in session today.

R. S. Barnett, state organizer, is from Texas. The state convention of the Farmers' Union is in session at Fort Worth, and Mrs. Barnett received a telegram from the convention inquiring if the report was true that Mr. Barnett had been killed.

FEDERAL DEATHS.

Deaths in Paducah from all causes in July totaled 20, which is a decrease from the rate of July, 1907. Health Officer Dr. H. P. Sights in his report to the board of health states that only two cases of scarlet fever were traced and one of diphtheria in July. He commends the cooperation of Mayor James P. Smith and Police Judge D. A. Cross in the efforts of the department to make the city more sanitary and compliments the sanitary officers on the performance of their duties.

BRISTOW CHOSEN BY REPUBLICANS ---COWHERD WINS

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—While returning from 50 counties, incomplete, in the primaries indicate that William S. Cowherd is combated by the Democrats for governor, David A. Ball is still a factor. Cowherd carried the cities. Ball's supporters claim that the country districts, where the returns are slow will give him the victory. Judge Wallace and Henry Stapel concede their defeat. Attorney General Haskin was nominated by the Republicans without opposition.

Bristow in Kansas.
Topeka, Kan., Aug. 5.—It is practically certain that former Assistant Postmaster General Bristow has defeated Senator Long for the Republican nomination for senator. W. R. Stubbs defeated Cyrus Leland for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Democrats nominated Hugh Farley for senator and W. H. Ryan for governor.

ZEPPELIN MAKES SECOND DESCENT SINCE HIS START

Berlin, Aug. 5.—An accident to Count Zeppelin's airship required another descent to earth this morning. The accident last night caused the first descent. Delays will prevent his getting back to Friedrichshafen within the promised time, but the trip otherwise was successful.

Stuttgart, Germany, Aug. 5.—Count Zeppelin's airship was totally destroyed while being repaired. The motors exploded and all but the frame work was wrecked. Four workmen were seriously hurt. Kaiser Wilhelm promised him funds for a new airship.

LIGHTNING'S SHOCK

Sharp Ky., Aug. 5. (Special.)—Lightning struck a telephone pole here yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock and followed a telephone wire into the home of Mrs. Mary Roundtree. Mrs. Roundtree was sitting in a chair close to the wall, and she was knocked to the floor. The shock was a light one, and she was not hurt. A heavy rain fell but no damage was done crops.

BOTH WRIGHT AND PRESIDENT RIGHT, SAYS SECRETARY

Confusion of Tongues Over West Point Cadets Un-
tangled by Statement.

No One Was Called Liar in This Episode.

EVEN LOEB'S STORY CORRECT

Washington, Aug. 5.—After comment had been heard on all sides here relative to contradictory statements made by President Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and Secretary of War Wright in reference to the dismissal of eight cadets from West Point for hazing, some light was thrown on the matter by Secretary Wright.

"There is no question of veracity whatever," Mr. Wright said. "What the president says is right, and is not in contradiction to statements made either by Secretary Loeb or by myself."

Secretary Wright then explained that the misunderstanding arose from a series of coincidences, for which no one was to blame. In the first place, the report of the board recommending dismissal of the cadets reached the war department while General Oliver was acting secretary of war. General Oliver did not act on it, but forwarded it without comment to President Roosevelt.

The president then, Secretary Wright says, indorsed the report of the board and sent the paper to him, who had just returned to the department.

"The president, however, requested that no action be taken until I had consulted with him," Mr. Wright continued. "The president's approval of the board's recommendation for dismissal did not mean that the cadets were released, because the president's action had no legal effect until the secretary of war had passed on the matter, and this General Oliver had not done."

Prior to receiving this communication from the president the cadets had visited Secretary Wright, explained their case and impressed the secretary of war with their frankness. Secretary Wright therefore was inclined to be as lenient as possible, and when he conferred with the president at Oyster Bay it can be assumed that he urged leniency.

"As the matter now stands," Secretary Wright told your correspondent, "we are looking over the papers, examining the testimony, and will take action later."

The Loeb Statements.
As explained to the press, President Roosevelt, Secretary Wright and Secretary Loeb were all accurate in their statements, although to all appearances they were contradictory.

Secretary Loeb's first statement on July 25 was: "The president has already signed the report. He is strongly opposed to hazing in the army and navy, and he is going to put his foot down in an effort to stamp it out."

Later on the same day, Secretary Loeb said: "The president has signed the order recommending dismissal."

Both these statements, it now appears, were accurate. The report was signed by the president, but had not been signed by General Oliver as acting secretary of war when it was transmitted to Oyster Bay. The report did recommend dismissal, but the president's indorsement did not make the dismissal sentence effective.

Dismissal Too Severe.

On August 1 Secretary Wright intimated that both he and the president believed dismissal would be too severe punishment for the cadets. This was after the matter had been threshed out at Oyster Bay, and did not indicate that no punishment would be meted out to the cadets, nor did it imply that the more guilty ones might be dismissed.

COMPLETE LIST OF CASUALTIES NEVER BE KNOWN

Vancouver, Aug. 5.—Fear of starvation among the victims of the great forest fire is practically over, because relief measures are so well systematized. Stragglers are coming into Fernie and Cranbrook, where they are cared for. The use of known dead now exceeds 100. Many casualties will never be known. Many were burned to ashes, and others were drowned in trying to cross streams. The fire attacked the town of Muelich again today. It is feared there will be more loss of life.

Southern Shippers Accuse Roads of Entering On Gigantic Combine To Increase Their Freight Rates

Hundreds of Them File Complaints Against Southeastern and Mississippi Valley Associations at Washington.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—Hundreds of grocers, jobbers and shippers from South Carolina, Florida and Tennessee have filed the first protest with the interstate commerce commission against the proposed advance of railroad freight rates. The charge is an illegal combination of railroads in the Southeastern Freight association. They accuse the Southeastern and Mississippi Valley Freight association of forming a monster combine, including 73 roads, and seeking to enforce exorbitant rates under the guise of changed business relations due to recent hard times.

SALOONS MUST CLOSE

All of the saloons must remain closed from 12 o'clock tonight until 5 o'clock Friday morning on account of the Democratic primary. The statute is clear upon this question, but many saloon keepers inquired of the police department today if they would be compelled to close their doors tomorrow.

Concrete Sidewalks.

Another two days of good weather will see the concrete sidewalk on Ohio street between Thirteenth and Third streets completed. Contractor George Katterjohn has made a rush job on the work, and he will begin work this week on the laying of the concrete sidewalks on South Eighth street between Washington and Tennessee streets.

A LANDMARK AT ELEVENTH STREET AND BROADWAY IS BEING TORN DOWN BY I. C.

Frame Station Erected in 1856
For "Paducah & Gulf" First in Paducah.

One of the landmarks of Paducah is being torn down this week, as work men are taking apart the front of the old railroad station at Eleventh street and Broadway. The station was one of the first erected in Paducah, and it has an interesting history in connection with the growth of Paducah. Old citizens have been interviewed, but it is difficult to ascertain definitely the date of the construction of the station.

When the Paducah & Gulf railroad was organized, a two-room building was erected at the corner in 1856. This was used as the passenger station and for the offices through the war, and during all of the financial battles that the road had to pass through. The road when built extended to Mayfield, and then the name was changed to the Paducah-Memphis railroad, and the track was extended to Fulton. Alternately with the passing of the road through a receivership the road changed its name to Newport News and Southwestern, and various other names that suited the fancy of the promoters.

In 1884 the two-room building was enlarged and a second story was built. All the addition was brought here in sections from Memphis.

The building is still sound but three months ago the building caught fire from a defective gas, and not having use for it the railroad officials decided to tear it down. The walls of the station are frame, but the wood is remarkably well preserved, and it is several layers thick, due to the building over of the old station. When the fire was discovered the firemen found it like chopping into a saw log. About 1896 the railroad with the shops was sold by the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern railroad to the Illinois Central railroad. A few years afterwards the station at Sixth and Campbell streets was built and the old station gave way as the passenger station and was used solely for freight. About 1901 the Union station was erected and the station at Sixth and Campbell streets became the freight station. The old station for several years was used as offices and the freight house is still a tobacco warehouse.

Some Railroad Men.

Several railroad men, who now hold positions of prominence, had schooling in railroad affairs in the building. Jack Flynn, now superintendent of the Texas Central rail-

SULTAN STABBED.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 5.—The leader of the Turkish revolutionary party here received a report from Constantinople that Sultan Abdul Hamid was stabbed in the breast in his private apartment Monday night by a white palace official. Only a coat of mail he wears next to his body saved the sultan's life. The would-be assassin was captured. A bag of gold was found on his person. It is believed this was a bribe he received for the attempt.

NEW PASTOR ARRIVES

The Rev. J. W. Bruner, who has accepted the pastorate of the Second Baptist church, has arrived from Clinton and is at home at 701 South Eleventh street. Mrs. Bruner accompanied her husband, and will make their home here, while the Rev. Mr. Bruner will fill the pulpit regularly.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS.

Entire First Regiment Offered Services for Miners' Strike.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 5.—At Camp Taft today there was a call made for volunteers from the Alabama militia for service in the strike zone. The entire First regiment with out hesitation offered their services. It now seems probable that the entire force will get a chance to do duty there; at least this seems to be the opinion of officers and men of the regiment encamped at Chickamauga.

Some One Shot at Him.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 5.—G. A. Suggs, a well known farmer living northeast of town, was in the city on Tuesday morning and stated that he believed someone attempted to assassinate him at a late hour Monday night. He says he attended a lodge meeting and while on his way home, he had to go some distance along a dark lane, and when about half way across it, he was shocked by hearing the report of a pistol twice in succession, and heard both bullets whiz very near to his head.

DATE FIXED.

Kern is to Be Notified Tuesday,
August 25.
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—John W. Kern will be officially notified of his nomination by the Democratic party for vice-president Tuesday, the 25th, at the state fair grounds. The date was announced by Mr. Kern and Chairman U. S. Jackson, of the Democratic state committee. "No definite plans have yet been made," said Mr. Kern, "but the details will be taken up and disposed of in a few days. Mr. Bryan will be here and will speak and it is probable that this will be his only Indiana speech this campaign."

C. P. STRIKE.

Winnepeg, Aug. 5.—Mechanics on the Canadian Pacific railroad struck here. A general strike has been ordered and leaders say all the round-house and shop employees from St. Johns to Vancouver will strike. Nearly 10,000 are affected. The men object to the new wage schedule, which was arranged by a board of arbitration, which recently heard grievances.

CONCRETE PLANT WITH INCREASED CAPACITY NEEDED

Politics is being abandoned by County Judge R. T. Lightfoot for the concrete manufacturing business, in which he was one of the pioneers of Paducah. As a concrete evidence of the growth of his concrete manufacturing business, an immense plant is being built at Twelfth and Trimble streets to house the Paducah Concrete company. Its dimensions are 100 by 125 feet, one story high and made entirely of concrete building blocks of which there will be 7,000 in the structure. At present the plant of the company is at Sixth and Harriet streets but the new building will be occupied within fifteen days. The capacity of the new plant will be 1,000 blocks a day and 300 feet of pipe. Judge Lightfoot began by supplying the local trade but is now shipping in large quantities and the pipe has finally been perfected so that it is being extensively used for sewerage, tilting and all other underground work.

FEW DESIRABLE HOUSES VACANT WITHIN PADUCAH

Mail Carriers Report Only 287, Mostly of "Gun-Barrel" Style.

Postoffice Collection Increased $100 in July.

MANY PERMITS ARE ISSUED

Erroneous reports about the number of vacant houses in Paducah have circulated in the gossip of the bank and its effects, as an investigation by the postoffice shows. The carriers found that instead of the 500 or 1,000 houses which rumor said were vacant, there are actually only 287 unoccupied. This showing is considered the best evidence of the sound financial condition of Paducah after the financial gale, as those houses which are vacant are the poorest and most undesirable kind. Many are in the outskirts and of the "gunbarrel" type. This postoffice made the investigation for its own account.

Stamp sales for July at the postoffice show an increase of $100 over July, 1907, running last month to $6,166. That a large increase is not shown is due to the fact that many large users of stamps have secured permits, by which they simply stamp on their packages that the postage has been paid without affixing the stamp itself. The cost of these permits does not enter into the record of stamp sales.

An examination for a mate on the government boat Lily will be held August 31 in St. Louis in the Victoria building.

VICTIMS OF SHOOTINGS

Metropolis, Ill., Aug. 5. (Special.)—Miss Eva Sleeter, who was wounded in Sunday night's tragedy, is still alive but the surgeons hold out no hope for her recovery. General peritonitis has developed and she is expected to die within twelve hours.

Jones Still at Large.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 5. (Special.)—Otto Hendley, who was shot Sunday night by Stanley Jones, is worse today and thought to be dying at his home near Dukedom. Jones is still in hiding, but is supposed to be in the vicinity of his crime. He is a reckless youth and probably would fight desperately if cornered. Guards are watching for his appearance.

PADUCAHANS LOSE TO FULTON LADS

Score in Second Game of Series Was 7 to 1.

Home Run Cracked Out By Fulton Boy When Bases Were Full of Runners.

BENNYAN ON THE SLAM TODAY

Fulton, Ky., Aug. 5.—With a pale face doing the pitching, the Paducah Indians lost to Fulton yesterday afternoon in a seven inning game, by a score of 7 to 1. Cutchin, who was secured by Manager John Hoffman, failed to keep the hits scattered, and the Fulton lads bagged eight safe drives. Off Davis the Indians smacked out seven safe ones, and made six mistakes to live for Fulton. Fulton made scores in the first, second and third innings, but the Indians did not get a small of the home run until the fifth inning, when one ran was pushed over. When Fulton went to bat with bases full, Jolly cracked out a home run, and spoiled the chances of the Indians to make the score a tie. However, had rain not stopped the game, there might have been something doing for the warriors. Today Chief Banyan will pitch, and he has arranged his war feathers so that Fulton will not reach first sack.

LA PORTE MURDER MYSTERY.

Body of Well Dressed Man Found Near Lake Shore Railroad.

Laporte, Ind., Aug. 5.—A murder mystery, which promises to be complex in its solution, developed with the finding of the body of a finely dressed man about 40 years old buried under a pile of rails about a mile east of Rolling Prairie, at a point near the Lake Shore road. The man had been shot in the head with a shotgun and his body dragged to the place of concealment. The clothes indicate the victim to have been a man well to do. The clothes were of the finest texture.

His clothes had evidently been purchased in Grand Rapids. Nothing but a copy of the Minnesota Farmer was found on his person, his money being having stripped him of any device as to his identification.

However the darkness of poverty is overshadowed by the discomfort.

WELL-KNOWN VETERAN VIGOROUS AT 90.

CAPT. JAMES M. SNOWDEN.

Capt. James M. Snowden, 625 Washington Ave., New Haven, Conn., of Fighting Nineteenth, Attends Reunion on His Ninetieth Birthday and Says that He Is Hale, Hearty and Vigorous, Due to the Constant Use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Captain Snowden Was One of the Most Distinguished and Well-Known Veterans of the Nineteenth Regiment Who Fought in the Civil War.

In a recent interview Capt. Snowden said: "I have used your medicinal malt whiskey and highly recommend it to all. At the age of ninety I am well and hearty, and it is not for a disability resultant, from a gun-shot wound, contracted in the army, I could compete with men much younger, thanks to the invigorating and health-giving qualities of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

Unsolicited testimonials like the above come from thousands of men and women who have been cured and restored to health by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

NO SMOKE NOR NOISE ON SHIPS

Robert Fernald Gives Outline of Proposed Vessel.

Every Vulnerable Part Below the Water Line—There Will Be No Smoke Stacks.

GAS ENGINES WILL BE USED.

New York, Aug. 5.—The war vessel of the future will be a swift, smokeless, noiseless craft, lying low in the water, with every vulnerable part below the water line, the cat's paw being given over to the work of the guns. There will be no smoke because there will be no smokestacks. In the night time there will be nothing to betray the presence of the invulnerable fighting vessel to the enemy.

This prediction was made today by Robert Fernald, naval mechanical engineer, who has for several years been connected with the fuel investigation of the United States geological survey.

Mr. Fernald believes that the gas engine, or the internal combustion motor, as it is called by engineers, will be installed in naval vessels of the United States within the next few years.

"I expect to see the United States ahead of any nation in this innovation," said Mr. Fernald. "This gas engine, in my opinion, is feasible on any vessel because of its economy over the steam engine, but it is especially desirable on the fighting ship for the reason that it makes no smoke. The gas is generated in a producer which has no chimney, and needs none. The coal is turned directly into gas, which goes straight to the engine.

Experiments a Success.

"The combustion of the smoke is sufficient to call for the installation of the gas engine, yet there are many

Increases Ability on Right Food.

Anything that will help the R. H. Telegraph operator to keep a clear head and steady nerves is of interest to operators particularly and to the public generally.

As the waste of brain and nervous energy in active work of this kind is great, it is important that the right kind of food be regularly used to repair the waste.

"I have used Grape-Nuts," writes a R. H. & P. operator, "for the past six or eight years, buying it by the dozen packages.

"A friend of mine, a doctor, who had been treating me for stomach trouble and nervous exhaustion, recommended me to leave off so much meat and use fruit and vegetables with Grape-Nuts as the cereal part of each meal.

"I did so with fine results and have continued Grape-Nuts from that time to the present. I find in my work as R. H. Telegrapher that I can do more work and far easier than I ever could on the old diet.

"To any man who is working his brain and who needs a cool, level head and quick action, I recommend Grape-Nuts, from long experience.

"There's a reason."

other features in its favor. The vessel will have a free deck for the play of its big guns. There would be no towering stacks to punctuate the skyline, thus crippling the boat. Then it would be unnecessary to carry as much coal, for the same power can be developed with one-third the amount of fuel that the steam engine uses.

"Of course, I do not expect to see the gas engine confined to the navy. The fact that it shows such economies will compel its installation in all sorts of vessels.

"One of the big steamship companies of the Great Lakes is about to take the initiative in this movement. Plans have been made for a freighter that will use a 2,000 horse-power gas engine."

The government, through the United States geological survey, has been experimenting with the gas producer and gas engine for several years, and has demonstrated that this type of engine, in a stationary plant, is capable of generating from twice to three times as much power from a given amount of coal as the steam engine.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Colman of No. 146 Houston St. New York. "It's a good family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complaints; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores, etc.

'SHINERS

REHEARSING PLAY IN JAIL—ONE WILL GO ON STAGE.

Plot Shows Moonshiners Believe in Death for Soles—Will Tour the Mountains.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 4.—The jail for a theater, the cells for a dressing room, the corridor for the stage, and the large door from the jail proper to the corridor for the curtain are the settings and equipment that the Federal prisoners, presently at moonshiners, are using in the county jail here for rehearsing a play that will some day be staged with the moonshiners the members of the company. The play that will be staged is the "Moonshiners," which has been written by Sam Sheppard since his home in Whitley county to stand trial in September on the charge of selling liquor without license from the Federal Government. Sheppard conceived the idea of writing the play and rehearsing it to while the long and arduous journey to the trial. The play, which has been written by Sam Sheppard since his home in Whitley county to stand trial in September on the charge of selling liquor without license from the Federal Government. Sheppard conceived the idea of writing the play and rehearsing it to while the long and arduous journey to the trial. The play, which has been written by Sam Sheppard since his home in Whitley county to stand trial in September on the charge of selling liquor without license from the Federal Government. Sheppard conceived the idea of writing the play and rehearsing it to while the long and arduous journey to the trial.

The plot of the play is laid between the towering hills of the ranges in Harlan county, where a gentle brook runs through a valley thick with the moonshiners thrive on their illicit brew. Surrounded by the hills and brush, the first act opens with a lot of shiners sitting around a still drinking the white whisky and playing cards. During this act every detail in making moonshine whisky will be expected, and those patients of the moonshiners who are not acquainted with the art of making or distilling, thus crippling the boat. Then it would be unnecessary to carry as much coal, for the same power can be developed with one-third the amount of fuel that the steam engine uses.

The second act deals with the moonshiners who were killed in the moonshine raid. While the act is absent in the rehearsal there is a place for it in the play, and this scene funeral will come into prominence when the "Moonshiners" is ready to be staged. The moonshiners' main purpose is to kill the men, who raid the place, bring their revolvers, and get fired on in return, when the curtain falls for the first climax.

Snatches to Woman's Wiles.

The third act, thrilling in every particular, shows the chase of the revenue men after the moonshiners. Some of the moonshiners are captured, and they are marched into a courthouse, where they are given their examination time, and the daughter of the moonshiner, Judge, pleads for the release of the men. The beauty of the judge's daughter strikes the revenue men, especially a younger member of the group, and while she engages him in a conversation, three of the "shiners" make their escape. The court breaks up in a disorder, and in the last scene of the act, the young woman, true to her Eastern Kentucky instincts, and tearing with her in hands, leads the moonshiners in their battle with the revenue men who are finally routed, and she gives her hand to one of the bravest of the "shiners."

Spy Hugged.

The fourth and concluding act of the play will bring more clearly to the audience the feeling of the moonshiners. The spy who tipped off the still is captured by strategy, and the moonshiners hold a court, and sentence him to death. He is hung as an example of what will happen to moonshiners who give information to revenue men.

The cast of characters is: Sam Sheppard, moonshiner, of Whitley county.

Col. Westington, revenue man, of Whitley county.

W. S. James, bootlegger, of Rowan county.

E. H. Ritchie, distiller of Knott county, who is serving a term in jail for making moonshine.

Samuel Meyers, of Rowan county, bootlegger.

Ben Funt, revenue man of Paducah county.

Henry Boniden, bootlegger, of Harlan county.

Ezekiel Anderson, whisky peddler of Leslie county.

Wes Sturgeon, sp. of Floyd county.

Wes Terry, moonshiner, of Rowan county.

Thomas Megee, moonshiner, preacher, of Laurel county.

Megee was selected as preacher because he has been convicted since he came here to jail and joined the Salvation Army after the theatrical season is over.

IS JUST STUDENT OF NATURAL LAWS

Pat Crowe Tells of His Earlier Escapades.

Why He Kidnapped Cuddey—Flagged It Out That Boy's Father Would Do Anything.

HE HAS NOW BEEN CONVERTED.

Detroit, Aug. 5.—The Free Press says: Pat Crowe, undomestic desperado and utility man by the way of crime, notorious as the kidnaper of sixteen-year-old Eddie Cuddey, some eight years ago in Omaha, is staying at the Hotel Normandie.

To begin with, Crowe is a fine figure of a man. Stalwart, disciplined in bearing, without a trace of the outlaw, he rather resembles a public speaker than a man who has served sentences in two of the severest prisons of the country, and who has taken a human life or two when pushed to the wall. Two years ago, when Crowe stepped out of the shadow of the law into the sunlight of freedom, he formed the determination to be "straight."

As he talked to a reporter for the Free Press, in a secluded corner of the hotel, he gave every reason to believe that in his calm, cool, strong way that he is still "on the level."

His Tastes Domestic.

Crowe is a man of domestic tastes, devoted to his wife and child. He neither plays cards nor the races, and lets tobacco alone in every form. His habits are simple and his ideals almost quixotic in their optimism. A self-educated man, he has a gift of expression that draws undivided attention to what he has to say, and his ideas are so strikingly original that they almost compel some measure of belief. He would make a good revivalist, but for his heterodoxy.

His features are rather small and well-cut, his pronunciation remarkably good, and there is an air of repose about the man which seems strangely at variance with many strenuous scenes where he has played the villain's part.

"What put it into my head to abduct Cuddey?" he asked. "Well, now you're getting at it. Why, I'll tell you. My mother was killed when I was a boy, and when I used to kneel down by her side to say my prayers I would look up at her sightless eyes and think, 'What wouldn't I do to make her see.'"

Result of a Trust.

"Well, when Cuddey's trust ran me out of my little business, I went to work for him, and I began taking his money. I'd take 5 cents here and 10 cents there, then $5, then $10. Well, I got caught—and fired.

"I was desperate, and I said to myself that when I was a kid, I would have given all I could rake to have my mother see; won't Cuddey do as much for his boy? You see I was a student of natural law. That's where I'm strong. When I stood trial, with Cuddey on one side and his ninety-two witnesses on the other, did I go on the stand, or put witnesses on for me? No; and this is why I said to myself, 'Let them jump on you. It's the under dog for all it's worth.' And it did help some.

"Crowe has a favorite scheme in which he has succeeded in interesting several legislators, and from which he expects tremendous results. It is nothing less than a national system of electric transportation, the roads to be built by long-term contracts, and the trains to be conducted by civil service men of strict temperance habits. He knows whereof he speaks. Train robbers, he maintains, are greatly facilitated by the incapacity of drunken switchmen. The convicts should be paid at the rate of 5 cents a day, so that when they are discharged, they may have a small capital at their command.

Views on Prison System.

"Do you believe in the prison system?" he was asked. "It's built of man's love of liberty. Just as the churches are founded on man's love of eternal life, Joliet's hard (that's where I put in six years of suffering) but they're all gradually coming round to a more humane point of view. I did a lot of thinking at Joliet, and I'm acting up to it now the best I know. I believe that's what is right. God makes no mistakes. If you believe in eternal life you're dead safe. I worked it all out down there, and I just can't be wrong.

Crowe, as he talks, has a trick of leaning forward and resting his hand on his listener's knee, that is very convincing. The fact that he permits his features up play does not discount the confidence he inspires. The man wears no mask. His timidity of countenance is the product of his uncomplicated mentality, and is anything but a pose. In spite of his being, as he says, a very close "student of natural law."

I. C. PICNIC

IS BEING HELD TODAY AT CERCLEAN SPRINGS.

Daily Decorated Engine and Coaches Leave Station at 7 O'clock for Grounds.

Landed to overflowing the gayly decorated coaches pulled by an engine that was covered with flags and bunting, the special picnic train of the Illinois Central railroad employees left at 7 o'clock this morning for Cerclean Springs. Shortly after 9 o'clock the picnic train reached its destination after a good run. The weather was not too warm. Today the employees had many sports at the springs, and the dancing pavilion was crowded all day. The roller skating enthusiasts had plenty of fun, too, as there was an excellent place to skate. For the old people there was plenty of shade. For the young bloods there was a baseball diamond, and several games were pulled off. There were many side attractions and there was amusement for all the employees and their families. The people at Cerclean Springs extended every hospitality and were glad to have the picnic there.

Plenty of ice water from all of the springs was on hand, and barbecued meats and fruits were for sale. A majority of the families carried their own baskets and dinner was served on the ground. In every way the picnic was the most successful ever given. The special train bringing home the happy employees will return this evening about 8:30 o'clock.

When the average man fails to make good he begins to look around for someone to blame it on.

Even a crook can't hand out a straight tip if he wants to.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUL.
Whoever may be our deliberate choke in the presidential race, a choke The Sun has taken no pains to concede, we cherish high above all alliance to party and candidate, an unshaken confidence in the sanity and patriotism of the citizenship of our country, and we hold it to be of more consequence than the success of any particular ticket, that the halloo should be cast this year in the light of a clear understanding of the issues,
unclouded by passion and prejudice.
If a mistake of judgment is made,
that may be rectified; but if class divisions are recognized by the voters and an endorsement of vindictive assaults on property rights is registered at the polls, a reaction will be felt that will shake the very confidence of the voters themselves in the institutions of a popular government.

The man, who has failed and has not the capacity to profit by his mistakes and the spirit to rise again, is certain to find an excuse for his failure, satisfactory to himself, in prevalent conditions, and he may be expected to oppose the existing order of things. No need to address him or the man, whose bread and butter are earned by opposition. But the rest of us need not become victims of the morality, because they complain.
Men differ on principles of state
It is better that they should. One man believes in protective tariff; another in free trade. One man thinks the country is safe on a substantial restricted money basis; another favors the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one. One favors federal supervision of great combinations of capital; another is fearful that this would be a step toward centralization and the stripping of the state of its time honored authority.

Wise men have fought over these issues and died, each firm in the conviction that he was right and the other wrong. We entertain no inter-ferences on account of these differences, as long as both contending parties recognize and yield to certain doctrines as essential to a free government.

First of these is that all men are born free and equal; i. e., stand equal before the law. To be consistent with this doctrine, a party must believe that the measures and policies it advocates are for the greatest good to the greatest number—of individuals, not classes. But when a party turns to the individuals of this class and says here is something that will affect you as a class thus and no one else, and you will benefit by it in those matters in which you as a class are interested, and it will damage someone else; and then turns to another class or section and proposes something that will militate to its exclusive advantage, regardless of the effect on the people as a whole, that party is playing the game of politics with elements dangerous to the welfare of the nation; for by recognizing class distinctions and arranging individuals by classes in their attitude toward the general government, they are destroying the mutuality of interest among citizens, as one might distinguish between the bricks that compose a house. This is our common country, and we are all one people.

The recognition of property rights and the holding of them sacred is related to the doctrine of equality, and is one of the prime attributes of freedom. It gives stability to the government, through the community of interest thus begotten, and strengthens foreign confidence in our institutions. This subject enters into nearly every issue in a general election, and every theory we call quasi-socialistic is one that threatens property.

The favorite scheme of agitators is to draw a line between capital and labor; and, yet in the last analysis, they must place in the ranks of capitalists every man, who owns property with a market value, whether he earns his living by manual toil, or by commercial pursuits. Every legislative, executive or judicial act that affects the property of one man affects the property of another in an equal and like degree, and you cannot destroy the wealth of one man through general legislation without injurious-ly affecting the wealth of every other man.

One of the problems that has been conspicuous throughout the national administration now on its last year, has been how to check the rapacity of powerful commercial interests, called for ease of disincor-poration, "predatory wealth," without jeopardizing property rights.

Men moved by passion, would annihilate the value of property in the hands of the "trusts," regardless of the fact that they like Samson might pull down the roof upon the Philistines, but to do so they would first have to topple over upon themselves
the pillars, which support the structure of our social organization. After all, we must look to these matters in a sane manner. It does not concern us that one man has more money than another. We see that condition all around us. It does not concern us how much money any one man has,
as long as the manner in which he is acquiring it does not trespass upon the rights of others, injure society or contravene public policy.

It is not the fact that the merged stocks have such a huge market value,
to which we object; but to the fact that the stock is watered and the public duped and swindled by its manipulation. Our aim should be the prevention of further manipulation of that character, not the destruction of the value of that stock sold at a profit by the manipulators and now in the hands of innocent holders.

Where corporations have contravened the law and restitution is possible, it should be compelled; but where property has become confused and rights are vested, discriminating efforts to injure their holdings could result in nothing but disaster. Our efforts must not be directed against wealth or the accumulation of wealth;
but against its use to impair the efficiency of government, to impede the commercial development of the country and to restrict freedom of enterprise.

We must not look upon these great combinations as abnormal creations and their organizers as unnatural beings. The trusts are typical products of the times, and their heads, great business men. Our most powerful commercial institutions got their start in a day of vigorous competition.
They were built up by men of the rugged American type, and they are examples in a way of the law of the survival of the fittest. While we deplore the ruthlessness of the Standard Oil company and the meat combine,
we acknowledge that their success was dependent more on the enrigment of waste, than on the predatory instinct of their founders and promoters; and no doubt the earliest merger was the accomplishment of a responsible man, who was confronted by the alternative of ruin or lawlessness. The rest is history.

Nor must we condemn all forms of mutuality in modern enterprises; for co-operation is the wardward of the times. Rus has superseded the ante-quated wasteful extravagance, cut-throat policy, and is but the emulation of the economy of nature. Labor unions, the co-operation of evangelical churches in missionary work, and the rebate associations of retail merchants are examples of the modern ideas.

We must not sigh for the old century days. They were not as good days as these. If there is any wrong being done by aggregations of greedily wealth—and there is, greedy wrong
—we must correct the abuse. But do not let us mistake the consequence for the abuse; and, above all, let us dispute with passion and prejudice and vindictiveness, and approach the business of the hour with calmness, patriotism and optimism.

A misfit truth is the worst of all lies.

Dick Claiborne had been ill and was abroad on leave in an effort to shake off the lingering effects of typhoid fever contracted in the Philippines.
He was under orders to report for duty
at Fort Myer on the 1st of April, and it was now late March. He and his sister spent the morning at their brother's school and were enjoying a dejeuner at the Monte Rosa. There existed between them a pleasant comradship, that was in no wise
affected by divergent tastes and temperaments. Dick had just attained his majority and was the youngest
man in his
rank in the service. He did not know an orchid from a hollyhock, but no man in the army was a better judge of a cavalry horse, and if a Wagner recital led him to death his spirit rose nevertheless to the bugle, and he drilled his troop until he could play with it and snip it about him like a whip.

Shirley Claiborne had been out of college a year and afforded a pleasant refutation of the dull theory that advanced education destroys a girl's charm or buoyancy, or whatever it is that is so greatly admired in young womanhood. She gave forth the impression of vitality and strength. She was beautifully fair, with a high color

Captain Claiborne.

that accentuated her youthfulness. Her brown hair, caught up from her brow in the fashion of the early years of the century, flashed gold in sunlight.
Much of Shirley's childhood had been spent in the Virginia hills, where Judge Claiborne had long maintained a refuge from the heat of Washington. From childhood she had read the calendar of spring as it is written upon the land, scape itself. Her fingers found by instinct the arbutus. She knew where white violets shone first upon the rough breast of the Highlands, and anticipatory patches of rhododendron had for her the intimate interest of private gardens.

As the Claibornes flung at their table a short stout man expel them from the door and advanced benignly.
"Ah, my dear Shirley, and Dick! Can it be possible? I heard only by the most recent chance that you were here. But Switzerland is the real meeting place of the world."

The young Americans greeted the newcomer cordially. A valet placed a chair for him and took his hat. Arthur Singleton was an American, though he had lived abroad so long as
to have lost his identity with any perticular city or state of his native land.
He had been an attaché of the American embassy at London for many years. Administrations changed and ambassadors came and went, but Singleton was never molested. It was said that he kept his position on the score of his wife's acquaintance, he knew every one, and he was a great poddler of gossip, particularly about people in high station.

The children of Hilton Claiborne were not to be overlooked. He would impress himself upon them, as was his way, for he was sincerely social by instinct and would go far to do a kindness for people he really liked.
"Ah, and you have arrived apparently, Miss Claiborne. There's mystery in the air—the great Stroebel is here—under this very roof and in a dreadfully bad humor. He's a dangerous man—a very dangerous man,
but falling fast. Poor Austria! Count Ferdinand von Stroebel can have no successor. He's only a sort of hold-over from the nineteenth century, and with him and his emperor out of the way what? For my part I see only dark days ahead." And he concluded with a little sigh that implied crumbling thrones and falling dynasties.

The reader of the Neue Freie Presse, preparing to leave his table, took from the newspaper an article that seemed to have attracted him, placed it in his cardcase and walked toward the door.
The eyes of Arthur Singleton lighted in recognition, and the attaché, muttering his apology to the Claibornes, addressed the young gentleman cordially.

"Why, Amritage, of all men!" he rose, still feeling the Claibornes with an air of embracing the young Americans in his greetings. He never liked to lose an auditor, and he would in no circumstances miss a chance to display the wide circumference of his acquaintance.

"Shirley—Miss Claiborne—allow me to present Mr. Amritage." The young army officer and Amritage then shook hands, and the three men stood for a moment, detained. It seemed, by the old attaché, who had no engagement for the next hour or two and resented the idea of being left alone.

"He always meets Amritage," declared Singleton. "He knows our American as well as we do—and very well indeed—for an Englishman."
Amritage bowed gravely.

"You make it necessary for me to disavow any allegiance to the powers that rule Great Britain. I'm really a fair sort of American. I have sometimes told New York people all about Colorado, Montana, New Mexico!"
His voice and manner were those of a gentleman. His color, as Shirley Claiborne now observed, was that of an outdoors man. She was familiar with it in soldiers and sailors and knew that it testified to a vigorous and wholesome life.

"Of course you're not English!" exclaimed Singleton, annoyed as he remembered, or thought he did, that Ar-mitage had on some other occasion made the same protest.

"I'm really getting sensitive about it," said Amritage, more to the Cla-bournes than to Singleton. "But must we all be from somewhere? Is it so melancholy a plight to be a man without a country?"

The mockery in his tone was belied by the good humor in his face. His eyes caught Shirley's passively, and she smiled at him. It seemed a natural, perfectly inevitable thing to do.
She liked the kind tolerance with which he suffered the latitude of Arthur Singleton, when some one had called him an international bore. The young man's dignity was only an expression of self-respect. His appreciation of the exact propriety resulting from his congenital introduction to herself and her brother was perfect. He was already with drawing. A waiter led followed him with his discarded newspaper, and Ar-mitage took it and idly dropped it on a chair.

"Have you heard the news, Amritage?
The Austrian sphinx is here—in his very house!" whispered Singleton impressively.

"Yes, to be sure, Count von Stroebel is here, but he will probably not remain long. The Alps will soon be safe again. I am glad to have met you."
He bowed to the Claibornes hesi-
tantly, nodded in response to Singleton's promise to look him up later and left them.

When Shirley and her brother reached their common sitting room, Dick Singleton, with the emphasis so thrown
as to imply that of course in any other
branch of human knowledge he would
be found abundantly qualified to answer questions.

"Did you introduce us to him—my
sister and me?" he inquired.

"My dear Claiborne, I'm always introducing people! It's my business to introduce people. Amritage is all right.
He's always around everywhere. I've dined with him in Paris, and I've rare ly seen a more order a better dinner."

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic regions, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cure. It is the most potent invigorant for female weakness.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to gain off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equalled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

"Don't be foolish, Dick. It's tubecoulous an officer and a gentleman.
But if you should see Mr. Singleton again!"

"Yes, but if I see him first!" ejaculated Claiborne.

"Well, you might ask him who Mr.
Amritage is. It would be amusing—and satisfying—to know."

Later in the day the old attaché fell upon Claiborne in the smoking room and stopped to discuss a report that a change was impending in the American state department. Changes at Washington did not trouble Singleton, who was sure of his tenure. He said as much, and after some further talk Claiborne remarked:

"Your friend Amritage seems a good sort."

"Oh, yes; a capital talker and thoroughly well posted in affairs."

"Yes, he seemed interesting. Do you happen to know where he lives—
where he's at home?"

"Lord bless you, boy, I don't know anything about Amritage!" spluttered Singleton, with the emphasis so thrown
as to imply that of course in any other
branch of human knowledge he would
be found abundantly qualified to answer questions.

"Did you introduce us to him—my
sister and me?" he inquired.

"My dear Claiborne, I'm always introducing people! It's my business to introduce people. Amritage is all right.

Birds As Effective Rural Police Force

Washington, Aug. 5.—"It pays the farmer to protect the birds," says de-cayed and worm-eaten wood and Biologist Henshaw, writing in the new year-book of the department of agriculture. "Only the thoughtless and ignorant," he declares, "still hold that the graceful forms and beautiful plumage of these masterpieces of nature serve their highest purpose when worn on a hat for a brief season, to be then cast aside and forgotten, the plumage dimmed and faded, the beautiful songs quenched forever."

Dr. Henshaw, however, doesn't class every bird as a friend of man's.
Indeed, he admits that few birds are wholly beneficial—but yet he says there are very few among the harmful ones that haven't at least one redeeming trait. He sums up the situation epigrammatically—
"Most birds most of the time are beneficial, a few birds most of the time are injurious."

According to Dr. Henshaw, birds form a very efficient police force for the air and ground. Thrushes, sparrows, larks and wrens, he says, research the surface of the earth for insects and their larvae, the warblers, creepers, etc., with their microscopic eyes, scan every part of the tree or shrub and few hidden creatures escape them. Woodpeckers, not content with carefully scrutinizing seed it eats."

Lockout at Vulcan Shipyard.
Stettin, Aug. 5.—The lockout of 8,000 ship riveters, which is in effect at the Vulcan ship building yard here, threatens to spread throughout the country. The trouble had its origin in the refusal of the men to accept the terms of their employers relative to the payment of overtime rates and in their objection to working extra hours in the completion of contracts. The construction of several warships has been delayed by reason of the attitude of the workmen. The local ironmasters association today decided to reduce the output of all furnaces 60 per cent, beginning next Saturday, in order to coerce the men, and should this measure not induce the riveters to return to work it is the intention of the ironmasters to lay a proposition before the German National Federation of Metal Workers to close all their works throughout the empire.

Prof. Adams declared that the holder of stocks is about "to come into his own." He regards the depression that followed the panic of last October as a blessing in disguise, in that it will insure economy by preventing the return of reckless confidence that was engendered by too much and too long continued good times.

"We are now almost through the business depression," he said today. "It was preceded by a period of intense business activity. Inevitably during such a period men lose more or less of their caution. In such times everything seems prosperous and the future promising, and there is less care taken to watch details of management and expenditure. So when the depression comes and revenues fall away the managers are about for means to reduce expenses. They have been finding out for the larger part of the year where to make economies, where they were permitting part of their money to go into avoidable expense. They have been taking in the slack, getting things on the safe and secure basis. It has been a severe experience, but from the standpoint of the shareholder it has been a really good thing."

"The depression will end and business will be good again. Its volume in the next cycle will be greater than ever. But the lesson of this period of enforced economies will not be soon unlearned. The increasing revenues will be paralleled off against columns showing reduced expenditures in many ways. There will be greater care and economy with the result that the stockholder will have a larger share of prosperity coming to him."

Promise to Leave Paducah.
Little and Maggie Cowan, who have been a big source of trouble to the city, were released from the city jail yesterday afternoon when a firm promise was made that they would shake the dust of Paducah from their feet forever. The girls raised a row in a house in Mechanicsburg, and were arrested. After partly serving a sentence the fine was suspended on the condition of good behavior. In less than two weeks the girls had a general melee in the public street, and they were caught in the dragnet. Police Judge Cress gave them a fine of $100 and costs and 30 days in the county jail. The days in the county jail were put up and they were serving out a fine of 135 days in the city jail when released.

Prof. Henry C. Adams, of Statisticians, Bureau, Prophesies Great Things in Store.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Prosperity better and greater than the United States has ever known is seen for the next decade by Prof. Henry C. Adams, for 20 years in charge of statistics and accounts for the Interstate Commerce commission. Prof. Adams is recognized as one of the foremost students of industrial and financial conditions in the service of the government. His intimate association with the railroads and their operation has given him a thorough insight into business conditions.

The commission's statisticians have reached the conclusion that business in all lines will soon return to normal conditions to be succeeded quickly by extraordinary prosperity in every department of industrial activity. Both capital and labor, in his opinion, are on the dawn of a new day.

"Prof. Adams declared that the holder of stocks is about "to come into his own." He regards the depression that followed the panic of last October as a blessing in disguise, in that it will insure economy by preventing the return of reckless confidence that was engendered by too much and too long continued good times.

Another Star Needed. The boy stood on the bridge of a schooner beside the captain on a stormy night. It suddenly became necessary for the captain to go below and he said to the boy: "If I take the wheel, I'll be back in a few minutes. Stay by that star, and you will be all right." The boy began to steer the vessel and soon got her out of her course. The star appeared at the stern instead of the head. He shouted down to the captain: "Come up and find me another star. I've passed that one." It's awfully hard to be popular with yourself and please your neighbors at the same time.

TAFT, IN SPEECH, TO BID FOR SOUTH

Vigorous Campaign Will Be Launched August 21.

Missouri Twins Are Named Howard Taft and Hadley Sherman.

HE TALKS FOR PHONOGRAPH

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 5.—Mr. Taft has fixed August 21 for Virginia day at Hot Springs. His speech on that occasion will be addressed to the southern people generally, and will mark the beginning of an effort on the part of the Republican national organization to break into the solid south.

Reports from all quarters in the south have encouraged Mr. Taft and the Republican congressional managers in the belief that they have a better chance this year to carry one or ten of the southern states than at any other time in the last quarter of a century. Letters have come to Mr. Taft from Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee urging him to impress upon the national committee the exceptional opportunity they have this year.

Georgians Can't Stand Bryan. The letters from Georgia have been particularly encouraging, especially since the nomination of John Tamm for vice-president on the Independence League ticket. The general tone of all of the letters from Georgians in the south is that they can't stand Bryan a third time. Members of the Virginia Bar association, whose annual meeting begins here tomorrow, have joined the south in this campaign. Members of the association believe that the Republicans may have a chance even of carrying Virginia this year.

President Wyndham H. Meredith, of the association said that the conservative business Democrats of Richmond are against Bryan this time in greater numbers than in his previous campaigns. A poll of the Commonwealth club in Richmond, according to President Meredith, disclosed the fact that practically the entire club is for Taft.

To Urges Southern Organization. Mr. Taft in his speech, on August 21, will urge upon the southern Republicans the necessity of organizing the Republican machine in the south is on a higher level and more active than it has been in a good many years. That is the result of Hittchcock's work. When he was in the south on his anti-convention campaign for delegates he tried to bring substantial business men into the organization and make the machine more representative than it had ever been before.

Congressman Stamp, the only Republican member of the house from Virginia, and S. Brown Allen, a United States marshal at Staunton, made the local arrangements here for the meeting. They said that the railroad had agreed to make special rates, and they had been assured by the state leaders that between 5,000 and 10,000 would journey to Hot Springs to hear the candidate. Mr. Taft will deliver his address from the veranda of the golf club house.

How in West Virginia.

When Frank H. Hittchcock gets here the latter part of the week he will find that he will probably have to go out into West Virginia, personally, in an effort to strengthen on the Republican row there. In some respects the West Virginia situation is the ugliest that confronts the national chairman. There are two Republican nominees for governor there, Charles W. Shriver is the nominee of the regular Republican convention. Arnold C. Scherr, who lost this convention because he thought his delegates had been unjustly deprived of their seats by the committee on credentials and held a convention of his own. As a result two state tickets are in the field. Until recently, however, Mr. Taft had assured that the same set of presidential electors would be named by each ticket and that the national ticket would not be affected by the local fight. Things have got so warm now, though, that the Shriver crowd is threatening to get out an injunction restraining the Scherr people from putting the regular Republican electors on their ticket. If that is done the national ticket will be jeopardized. Mr. Taft is considerably concerned over the situation.

Taft and Hadley Twins. Missouri jumped to the front in the Taft baby naming contest. It will take triplets to beat that state. W. F. Heavener, of Lebanon, Mo., is

People of Paducah who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Paducah. Here's Paducah testimony:

J. H. Womble, of 1162 Broadway, Paducah, Ky., says: "When I gave the statement for publication in 1906, telling of the great benefit I had received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at Duffins Son & Co's drug store, I had no idea it was to be a lasting benefit for I had been a severe sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble and a weak back. The pain in my back was so acute at times that I would almost have to crawl on my hands and knees to get about. The kidney secretions were highly colored, also, and burning in passage. Not until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills did I get relief. I noticed their good effect in one day, and in a short time the kidney difficulty was corrected and the terrible pains across my back had passed away. I can say at this time, that I am better in health than at any time in twenty years. This remedy is one of the few that do not that is claimed for them."

One of the boys he named Howard Taft Heavener and the other Hadley Sherman Heavener. He won't be disappointed on the Hadley nomination because there is no opposition to his candidacy.

Taft Charming Speeches.

Candidate Taft has consented to make several short speeches into talking machines for reproduction. As the process of making a phonograph record is somewhat different from making a campaign speech from the back platform of a car or from a front porch, Mr. Taft found Mrs. Taft laughing at him as he was doing a bit of rehearsal for the records.

Several experimental talks were made and reproduced with varying degrees of satisfaction. The speeches which a single record will hold average about 100 words in length. These topics to be discussed for reproduction in this way have not as yet been decided upon. As an example of what the machine can do, the candidate was treated to the reproduction of a record made by W. J. Bryan.

SENATOR ALLISON

DIES OF HEART FAILURE AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

Bronson Howard, Famous Author and Dramatist, Passes Away in New Jersey.

Dubuque, Iowa, Aug. 5.—United States Senator William B. Allison died of heart failure.

The death of Senator Allison removed from the senate a man who, for more than a quarter of a century, was one of its most prominent members. He has served continuously since 1871, and for the greater part of his term of service he was recognized as one of the most influential members of that body. As chairman of the committee on appropriations much of the final legislation passed through his hands. He had not been in good health for some time past, and this fact had given rise to speculation as to whether he would be a candidate for re-election, his term expiring March 3, 1909. Mr. Allison was born at Perry, O., March 2, 1829, and removed to Iowa in 1857.

He served as a member of the house of representatives in the thirty-eighth, thirty-ninth, fortieth and forty-first congresses, prior to his election to the senate.

GENERAL AMNESTY FOR ARMENIANS

Sultan Has Extended Clemency to 200,000.

Refugees Are Not Likely to Return to the Country Unless They Have Foreign Assurance.

WHAT ARMENIANS SAY.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Sultan of Turkey, through the Turkish consul general in this city, Mumdji Bey, today proclaimed general amnesty to all political fugitives, regardless of race, in this country. This relates to about 200,000 Armenians and others in the United States.

The Amnesty Proclamation. The message received by the Turkish consul general from the Turkish government was as follows: "Inform all fugitive Turkish citizens in New York City and in all the United States, including political fugitives without regard to race or nationality, whether Greek, Armenian, Turkish, Albanian, everything, that after promulgation of a constitution for the Turkish empire its Majesty, the sultan, on request of the government has granted general amnesty, and all political fugitives may go back to Turkey after having the necessary passports verified at the office of the Turkish consul general, 59 Pearl street, New York City."

The reading of the announcement to a number of his countrymen in the consul general was greeted with cheers. Mumdji Bey said: "I regard it as the most important step forward that has yet been taken, in so far as it relates to the United States. There are some 400,000 Turkish citizens in this country and more than 200,000 of these are political fugitives, men who may have often longed to return to their old homes but have feared to do so. These men may now go back to their country without fear. The Armenians and the Greek Turk, all natives of our country, can now feel that they are welcome in the land of their birth. This is a great day for the Turkish empire and the Turkish people."

Chicago Armenians Want Guarantees.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—There are approximately 12,000 Armenians in Chicago, many of whom, according to political refugees. While the announcement of amnesty excited great interest among them, a majority of them professed to doubt the sincerity of the Sultan in issuing the proclamation. He has not done kind words in the past and it will require a guarantee of safety before they will return to their native land. There are native national organizations of Armenians in this country, the Old Churchkhists, the Reorganized Churchkhists, and the Irindakchikians. A newspaper in the vernacular is published in Boston.

SECOND VICTORY

FOR "DR. FIZZ," A. M. LEAVISON & CO.'S POPULAR DRINK.

Case Against T. H. Reed for Selling It On Sunday Dismissed in the Police Court.

A. M. Leavison & company won another signal victory in the police court this morning for their popular soft drink, "Dr. Fizz," when in the case of T. H. Reed, of Ninth and Boyd streets, who was arrested for selling the beverage on Sunday, the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. The evidence proved there is no alcohol in the drink, and therefore it is no violation to sell it on Sunday, nor is city license necessary for its sale.

In the case against Thomas Cole a few days ago the same verdict was rendered and the drink declared a non-intoxicant, as in this case. "Dr. Fizz" is one of the best sellers Leavison & company have, and the makers contend, as the evidence in these two cases clearly indicated, and there is no alcohol in the drink, and that it is purely a soft drink.

SCHOOL BONDS ARE TO BE SUBMITTED

Board Will Ask For $60,000
From Citizens.

Let Coal Contract and Decide to Issue
Book of Common Study.

REGULAR AUGUST MEETING.

The school board last night decided to submit to the voters on the regular election day, November 3, the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $60,000, to publish the course of study and other information concerning the public schools in book form; to increase the tuition to $2 for primary grades, $3 for grammar grades and $5 for the high school and to award to the Pittsburg Coal company the contract for furnishing fuel for the Lee, Garfield, McKinley and Washington buildings at 11 1/2 cents, and to the Winston Fuel company, handling the West Kentucky coal, the contract for the Franklin, Lincoln, Whitner, Longfellow and Jefferson buildings at 8 1/2 cents, to compare the two grades of coal.

The Jefferson school league, represented by Mrs. H. C. Overby and Mrs. H. L. Corbett, was granted permission to install a combination drinking fountain and wash basin at the Jefferson building.

The monthly report of Fred Hoyer, superintendent of buildings, was received.

A. J. Hargett resigned as a teacher of history and civics in the High School, and on recommendation of the superintendent, Prof. O. S. Elliott, of Washington, Ill., was selected to fill the vacancy. Prof. Hargett accepted a position in Missouri.

The matter of publishing the year book was referred to a committee composed of Superintendent Carney, Professor Sims and Trustees Hills, Kink, Whisland and Clements.

Secretary Kelly submitted a statement of receipts and disbursements from August 1, 1927, to July 31, 1928, and stated that notes to the amount of $10,000 are due, all of which but one for $300 could be renewed. He said the notes were paid the treasurer would about be deposited, but that about $5,000 would be received in a few weeks.

Trustee Hill was of the opinion that the notes should be paid off if the board had the money, thereby saving the school credit.

A motion prevailed to take up all the bank notes possible and to pay Mrs. Grogan $500 with $120 interest, and renew a note with her for $3,500.

Health Officer H. P. Slight notified the board that it must connect the Lee building with the sewers in district one. The notice was read.

President Henderson said that under the law no special election could be held to vote on bonds; and that such a proposition must come up at a regular election. The board had previously decided on an issue of $60,000 but Trustee Hills said the board should be certain about the amount needed. He said as much as $75,000 is needed it ought to be placed before the people. In the event $75,000 is needed it would not be necessary to sell all the bonds. Secretary Kelly did not wish to get too big a proposition before the public for fear it would be defeated, and he thought the amount of the bond issue should be as small as the schools could get along with. Secretary Kelly said a representative of the Woman's club assured him that the club members would work for the bond issue.

As $40,000 had previously been decided on as the amount of the bonds the board concluded to make no change in the figures.

Trustees Henderson, Hurd, Clements, Hills, Kink, Kelly and Maxwell were present last night.

COLORED TEACHERS

INSTITUTE TAKES UP THE MIND AND READING.

Development of Child in School Room and Proper Methods Are Discussed.

The Rev. Dr. Robinson read scriptural lesson and invoked divine blessings.

Teachers responded to roll call with quotations.

Prof. B. W. Jackson, instructor, recommended a list of about 25 books which teachers ought to read, and from which they may gain inspiration and help.

The subject was "Psychology" under the following subdivisions: Imagination; What it is, its value, how to train it.

It was ably discussed by Prof. J. E. Smith and the following teachers: Laura Caruthers, Prof. J. H. Morphis, Prof. T. D. Hibbs.

The instructor made the following summary of the discussion: The general rule for training the memory: Be sure to have the pupils get clear and complete conceptions of ideas.

Methods: (a) Reviews, (b) Recognize the principle of self-activity, i. e., let the pupils seek and discover things for themselves, (c) comparison; Let the children see things in their relations. One idea holds another in the mind. This idea holds similar ones. All of this is by the law of association; (d) Application; Let the children apply what they have learned; for if they can apply their knowledge it is more probable that they understand it; and if they understand it, they must have clear concepts.

After recess Prof. T. D. Hibbs discussed opportunities offered by the school for developing and strengthening the will. He emphasized that the will is the power of the mind to determine and execute.

The school offers the following opportunities: 1. Obedience; 2. Industry; 3. Exercising common courtesy.

The school is a miniature state, and the various duties, tasks, obligations, etc., prepare the children for citizenship.

The senses were discussed by Prof. Jackson. "The senses are the avenues through which the child must be educated."

"It is only by mind coming in contact with matter that the child gains knowledge. The most important of the senses is the sight, because of its rapidity and its scope. It is the duty of the teacher to train the child to see and observe closely."

Tuesday afternoon Prof. Jackson gave this summary as "Food for thought":

The senses are of the greatest importance, because they are the means by which the individual obtains knowledge. Therefore, the senses should be trained to do their work thoroughly, because all the higher operations of the mind depend upon thorough observation. If the senses do not perform their work well, the products of imagination, judgment and reason must be unsatisfactory on account of the scarcity or poverty of material furnished by the senses.

Instruction is the process of teaching that begins with individuality or particularity and by comparing them, seeing their likeness or difference, leads up to a general truth.

Education is the process of teaching by which we set out with general truths and proceed to their application in individual cases.

Revs. Dr. Foston, of Owensboro, Ky., and V. S. Smith, pastor of Washington Street Baptist church, and S. R. Reid, D. D., were introduced and each made an inspiring talk.

The subject "Reading" was next taken up and ably discussed in a paper by Prof. J. L. Hamilton, who confined himself to the "assignment of the lesson," "How I teach reading," was thoughtfully discussed by Laura Caruthers. The first subject after recess was "Primary Reading," which was ably discussed in a paper by Addie E. Howell. "Some essentials for good reading:"

1. The teacher should be a good reader.

2. The true teacher plans her lessons.

3. The teacher should interest the children in what they are about to read.

The instructor, Prof. Jackson, then gave an interesting exposition on the subject Reading. The mental effect of fairy tales, myths, etc., was clearly brought out by Prof. T. D. Hibbs.

Mr. Wheeler and his men made ready their guns to waylay the Indian if he didn't surrender immediately. WITHOUT BRAINS

CHILD LIVES SEVERAL HOURS
IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL.

Doctors Watch With Wonder the Physical Functions of New Born Infant.

New York, Aug. 5.—As a refutation of the axiom that no human being can live without a brain, the physicians of Bellevue hospital are citing the case of Marie Galcomi, who died at the institution at the age of forty hours. An autopsy revealed the fact that she had come into the world practically brainless.

The child when seven hours old was taken to the hospital by her father, Leonardo Galcomi. He said that he had brought the child for treatment, because there was something wrong with its head.

When the child was unwrapped from voluminous clothes it was almost a startling sight. Its head was almost flat on top and its eyes stood out from their sockets. It was, however, breathing normally and cried as an ordinary infant does. Unlike most infants less than a day old, it took nourishment greedily.

It was thought at the hospital that the shape of the child's head was a malformation and that the possibility of the soft bones of the skull would restore the head to a normal shape. It was not dreamed that the infant was wholly without brain matter.

However, the child died while it was being fed. There was nothing to indicate approaching death and no struggle. Simply the infant ceased to breathe. An autopsy revealed that beyond a rudimentary cerebellum, that was scarcely more than an indication, the infant had absolutely no brain. The doctors declare that there is not another case of a human being living without a brain known to science.

TOBACCO NEWS

"These rains have been fine on the growing tobacco crop," said a tobacco buyer this morning. "and the rains will do much toward bringing out the backward patches." In a trip over the "Black Patch" one may find almost every size of the plants, and the crop will be irregular this year. If the crop is not attended to properly it will be a mean one for the farmer to handle, as sections of the patch will ripen sooner than other plants sowed at the same time. Then some of the tobacco plants are not out of the clouds yet. However, there will be a bigger crop of the weed in the western part of Kentucky than ever before.

There is practically no buying of tobacco at present, and all of the local buyers have quit, and may not begin again for several weeks. The tobacco is in sweat now, and it does not show up its true condition. August has always been a dull month with the sale of tobacco and the officers of the association are entertaining the question of not holding any more sales until autumn or until there is a call from the buyer.

REAL ESTATE IS PICKING UP AGAIN

Dealers Report Improved Demand By Renters.

Many Working Men Are Planning to Purchase Their Own Homes This Fall.

SEPTEMBER WILL BE NORMAL.

No better sign of returning prosperity in real estate circles could be had than the statement of real estate dealers and rent agents, all of whom declare that the real estate trade is picking up steadily. Nearly every real estate man in Paducah has been busy the past two weeks talking up prospective deals to customers, and their offices have assumed an air of expectancy. This change in business has met with royal welcome from all who have more or less suffered losses since last October, when after the financial crisis tenants began to practice economy by leaving houses vacant and living two families in one house.

One real estate man this morning said that he had noticed a steady increase in all branches of the real estate business during last month. While he admitted that quite a number of houses are still vacant there are just about half the number that were scattered over Paducah four months ago. The resumption of the Illinois Central shops with an increased force has brought many families back to the city from the country, where they had moved. Many of the smaller industries have resumed operations and there is a prospect of several large industries opening up in a few months.

While the majority of the homes left vacant are by families wishing to economize, quite a few were deserted because of their poor physical condition. If these are repaired they will not stand long in wait for occupants, for the boom will come, say the real estate men. The general feeling of the rent agents is that the situation is drifting back normal, and as one real estate dealer expressed it: "I look for September to be an average month."

The real estate men have received inquiries the past week from a number of working men who have decided to buy homes and quit paying rent. These inquiries suggest that it is not as difficult for the laboring man to secure work.

PUBLIC WORKS

BOARD MEETS AND TRANSACTS ROUTINE BUSINESS.

City Engineer Will Supervise Transfer of Gravel to Tenth Street.

Orders that the board of public works has given in regard to loading and unloading coal on First street, were renewed in the regular meeting yesterday afternoon, attended by President Rudy and Mr. F. W. Katterjohn, and Street Inspector Hell was instructed to issue warrants where the nuisance of dropping coal into the gutters where it is washed into the sewers, is not abated.

Councilman H. W. Cornelson requested an arc light for the corner of Fountain avenue and Madison street, but the board advised him to see the general council, which can provide for the extra expense, in which event the light will go up.

JOHN WILHELM, Local Circulator

110 SOUTH FIFTH STREET. NEW PHONE 1316.

will supervise the transfer of the gravel from Broadway and Jefferson street to Tenth street between Broadway and Kentucky avenue. The chain gang will grade the street and spread the gravel. Mr. Washington also was instructed to dispense with the services of an inspector on the work on Eighth and Ohio streets. For economy, these streets will have gravel only to back up the gutters at present.

Street Inspector E. H. Bell received directions to notify gravel pit owners in the northern section of the city to have them drained at the owner's expense, and Mr. Katterjohn, a member of the board, is affected by the order, as he owns two pits.

Reports for the last half of July for the streets, lights, sewer and engineer departments were received.
